

Water Conservation for Home & Garden

Free Workshop at Woodland Community & Senior Center

2001 East Street, Woodland, CA 95776

March 31st 5-7:30 pm

The Yolo Resource Conservation District (RCD) and the City of Woodland are hosting an informational workshop to assist residents in making “water-wise” choices around their homes, including how to save water in day-to-day tasks & through landscaping with native and drought-tolerant plantings. Speaker topics will include water conservation, water-wise landscaping, and irrigation. There will be exhibits from local plant nursery representatives and irrigation companies. Examples of native and drought-tolerant plant species will be on display and water-wise packets and conservation devices will be available from City of Woodland.

Photo above of water-wise native & drought-tolerant Mediterranean species courtesy of Ellen Zagory and UC Davis Arboretum.

For additional workshop information:
cityofwoodland.org/waterconservation or
<http://yolorcd.org>

Meeting partially funded by CA Dept. of Conservation & the City of Woodland

City of Woodland

Environmental Services
(530) 406-5100
www.cityofwoodland.org

YOLO COUNTY
RCD

For additional information contact:

Dawn Calciano at 530-406-5117
dawn.calciano@cityofwoodland.org

or

Chris Robbins at 530-662-2037 X 106
crobbs@yolorcd.org